

To whom it may concern:

As times are changing, money is always an issue for not only citizens, but also the city/county's. It would be a blessing for a new business like Sunset hills venue. Most venues in general bring folks from out of state or out of town which always means revenue for the city. Folks need places to stay for the night or weekend and end up eating not only at the venue but also at surrounding restaurants. The same folks spend valuable money at stores when they forget things needed for their weekend. They spend money shopping at stores they don't have at home. That's just the folks coming in, there is also the fact that the venue brings taxes, jobs to the city/county.

Without new businesses and money coming into the city/county starts to risk the future. You risk city improvements, wages for city officials, schools. With today's hard times to not allow a new business to start and bring money to the community would be a major fail to the community. And at that point you should start to ask the question why don't you want city growth and money coming in.
